Learning Points

Subject and Object Pronouns

Pronouns are used in place of nouns. You use pronouns to talk about something or someone without repeating the name.

You use subject pronouns when the pronoun is doing the action or is the main topic (subject) of the sentence.

You use object pronouns when the pronoun is receiving the action.

Subject	Object	Example
I	me	I like to watch reality TV shows. Do you want to watch with me ?
you	you	You need help. Let me help you .
he	him	He is the new teacher. I know him .
she	her	She is Peter's sister. Peter gave her the keys.
it	it	It is a house with a red door. Where is it ?
we	us	We are lost. Can you help us ?
they	them	They are Tom's parents. I know them .

Learning Points

Verbs with Infinitives

Some verbs take infinitives (to + verb) after them.

You use infinitives to say what you want or prefer.

You use this form:

prefer to + verb

want to + verb

Examples:

- I prefer to finish my work and then think about fun.
- I want to watch this movie. I hope Peter can go with me.
